Summary of Changes

- Subscriptions are created by selecting a product in the 'New Subscription' drop-down (no more order forms).
- Subscriptions now hold any number of products and addons. (Addons require that at least one product be on the subscription.)
- Products are displayed in bold text, and addons are displayed in normal text.
- Products and addons appear on the same lists and are no longer treated differently, other than the rule above.
- Various date rules are enforced, for instance:
 - Expiration dates are restricted to stay within 30 days of the original expiration date.
 - Products can have separate active/expiration dates from the subscription they are attached to, but must fit within the subscription
- Ask The Expert credits can be attached to a group, and become usable once they are assigned to a user. (A group administrator or CRM user can assign credits)

- 1. The main subscription info refers to the "bucket" that the products are put into. Indicates subscription type and effective dates (products have their own effective dates within the subscription)
- 2. Links for this subscription allows you to navigate between renewals, or to delete or terminate the subscription. (Future subscriptions can be deleted; current subscriptions can be terminated as of today but can not be deleted)
- 3. Use this drop down to add more products or addons to a subscription.
- 4. Products are listed in bold, and addons are listed in normal text
- 5. Order Type column shows how this product was added to the subscription.
- 6. The current number of licenses used
- 7. The current number of licenses available
- 8. Upgrade/downgrade button use this to change the product
- 9. Cancel button this will remove a single product from the subscription, but leave the rest of the subscription intact.
- 10. Submit button use this to submit any changes you have made to license count or promo codes.

Credit Assignment Page

- 1. Counter shows the number of credits available at the group level. This will decrease as you add credits to the users.
- 2. Increment/decrement user credits. This will move credits from the group counter to the user counter.
- 3. Click 'Save' when you are done.
